

CarePatrol Helps Families Find Senior Living and Care

Finding the right senior care option can be a confusing and difficult process for seniors and their families, especially when there is a need to make a decision quickly. Fortunately, professional, reliable help is available. CarePatrol is a Senior Placement Agency serving seniors and their families to help guide their search for appropriate and safe senior care.

In November of 2012, Sheila Nemeth launched her CarePatrol placement agency in the Lehigh Valley, providing assistance to local families looking for senior care. Since then, she has helped over seventy families navigate the senior living landscape by sharing the expertise and knowledge she has acquired from working hand-in-hand with the families she has helped. She is passionate about the opportunity to educate and advocate for families in their time of need. She has also completed the rigorous coursework of the nationally accredited Society of Certified Senior Advisors to obtain the CSA designation, abiding by a Professional Code of Ethics and meeting continuing education requirements.

CarePatrol, known for putting the personal touch into the assisted living placement industry, now operates over 150 offices across the nation. A Local Certified Senior Care Advisor will meet with seniors and families to understand their unique situations and needs and provide information about appropriate senior living options. The advisor reviews the care and violation histories of recommended communities and tours with clients much like a realtor shows new homes to families. Best of all, CarePatrol services are FREE to families, compensated by the national network of senior care providers.

“CarePatrol was an enormous help to me in finding the right senior living facility for my parents. Sheila has a broad knowledge of the senior living and care communities and acted in my family's best interests at all times. She has great integrity, is kind, patient and supportive--an all-around great person. There are so many different possibilities, trying to find the right fit can be completely overwhelming. I highly recommend CarePatrol to everyone who is trying to navigate the maze of senior living options available in this area.”
